LABOR HEADS PRESENT NEW PHASE OF STRIKE

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, July 13.—B. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor, today sent a telegram to President Harding replying to the President's proclamation of the strike situation and opening a new phase of the grievances of the striking shopmen.

The telegram signed by the six international presidents of the shopcraft, declared that the strikers walked out because the wages fixed by the Labor Board were in violation of the Transportation Act and because of violation of Board's position by the railroads. The message said the interrupting of the mail and interstate commerce is directly due to the railroads attempt to operate with incompetent help and not caused by the strikers. It reiterated the desire to cooperate in any effort to bring peace, but declared the executives refused to meet with representatives of the employees.

Chicago, July 13.—While flatly refusing to meet the leaders of 400,000 striking shopmen to discuss peace proposals, railway executives last night left open the door for a settlement of the strike through the United States Railroad Labor Board.

The executives asserted that the strike was called in defiance of the board and therefore any conference between the executives and the strikers would not be "permissible or tolerable," as it would place the carriers in the position of seeking to find means to subvert the decision of the board.

In railway circles the belief is expressed that the mere opening of negotiations was a long step toward a peaceful settlement.

STOLE TWO CARS AND ROBBED STORE

Some one certainly had decided to have what they wanted Wednesday night and were not to be interfered with. They "borrowed" Jake McCord's car to ride to Red House. The car was on the Normalcampus while Mr. McCord and his family attended the Chautauqua. When the performance was over the car was not to be found. Several hours later John and James Farley found the car at Red House and brought it to town. The person or persons, who had driven to Red House in the car, were evidently at that time in the store owned by E. E. Davis. They broke in and got what they wanted from the store which were knives, overalls, socks, etc.

When they returned to the place where they had left the car it was not there. Determined not to be outdone, they went across the road to Mrs. Cora Boggs' garage and got her car. Mrs. Boggs had returned from the Chautauqua so this must have been late in the night.

Officers were put on the trail and found Mrs. Boggs' car in a pasture near Kirksville, Thursday morning. No damage had been done. Every effort is being made by the officers to catch the thieves.

TRY CHIEF'S PATIENCE FOR COURT'S OPINION

(By Associated Press)

Frankfort, Ky., July 12.—Kentuckians, from one end of the state to the other, watching the Court of Appeals (the Kentucky Supreme Court), for a decision on the validity of the General Registration law passed by the 1922 legislature, did not know on June 29 how nearly they came to having the decision held upon an indefinite period. Just one interruption of the Chief Justice, Rollin Hurt, stood between the giving out of the opinion on that day and holding it indefinitely.

The law was attacked by an injunction suit. This is an informal action and the opinion was not handed down from the bench. On June 29 Justice Hurt was engaged in writing the opinion of the court declaring the law unconstitutional. Friends, newspaper representatives, attorneys and state officials sought to find out when the opinion would come down. Justice Hurt had planned to leave for his home in Columbia at 4 p. m.

Numbers of people called the Justices' office to ascertain the time the decision might be expected. Others went to the office. One man did not leave when he had asked his question, but loafed about half an hour.

Finally the patience of the chief justice, who is known as an especially and conscientious official, became exhausted. "One more interruption and I'll stick this thing in my pocket and take it to Columbia with me and write it in my own sweet time," he told Hill Cheshire, sergeant at arms of the court. Mr. Cheshire imparted this information to attaches of the court, officials and newspaper men.

From that time until the decision was made known at 4:55 p. m., a cordon of clerks from the office of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, the sergeant at arms and newspapermen were maintained across the Capitol Hall at the end in which the Chief Justice's office is located. Nobody was allowed to approach the office except the sergeant at arms, and the chief deputy clerk of the court who had to see the justice about court business, and finally the opinion was handed down just in time for night editors of afternoon papers.

MERCER OFFERS RICH PRIZES FOR HOUNDS

"Houn' Dog" Show At Harrodsburg Fair Promises To Be a Dandy This Year

Madison county probably sends more fox hounds to the Mercer county fair each year at Harrodsburg than any other county in the state, Mercer not even excepted. Madison is the home of the fox hound and all dog owners will be interested in the rich prizes which are to be offered at the Harrodsburg fair this year. The Harrodsburg Herald said:

The success of any enterprise is assured by its growth. This is a proof of the success of the Fox Hound Show at the Mercer County Fair. Since its inauguration three years ago, at the suggestion of Mr. W. A. Sharp, it has been one of the chief drawing cards at the fair and the premium lists and exhibits have more than doubled.

This year the premium list is most tempting and outside interest is shown by the generous donations that have been made by dog fanciers and others to the prizes. Mr. Sharp and Mr. Clark Curran are managers and they have been most energetic in getting exhibitors for the different classes. About 400 dogs have been promised as entries and the money and trophies amount to nearly $600, and by the time the fair is on the prospects are that even this good record will be surpassed. Local people have every reason to be proud of this department of their fair which brings so many out of town folks to the exhibit. While thought and attention is given to every department of the fair by those who have their particular branch in charge, none are given more untiring work than the Fox Hound Show.

Following are the names of those who have contributed generously trophies and premiums to date:

Cup valued at $100 from Gen. Roger D. Williams, Lexington.

Cup valued at $75 from L. B. Shouse, Lafayette hotel, Lexington.

Gep valued at $25 from Enno Myers, Cincinnati.
